

Awards and accolades:

At the National Noble Science Conclave held in December 2011, in IIIT Allahabad, Lt. Dr. K.P. Sridhar received the Best Project Award for Borewell Rescue Operations. Several Noble laureates and scientists participated in the event and in that august gathering, our managing trustee received the award from Director IIIT Allahabad.

In his award oration, he spoke how his device is meant to help and save the lives of children who fall into a deep uncovered borewell and the use of technology to build this device for the help of a common man during distress. He highlighted that this device can become a supportive device for fire service men. He said that he would be willing to train fire service officials for them to use it whenever there is such an accident. He also mentioned that it could be a great arsenal for the fire service men.