Dr.S. Sharmila gave training on preparing Phenyl with safe handling and preservation methods. Participants actively participated in this training program. The aim of this activity is that after completing this training, the participants should ideally produce the products or services and have the knowledge to source the raw materials and accessories associated with the product or services.

Dr.M Kulanthaivel gave training on preparing Soap Oil and product management.

Dr. M. Kalaimathi gave training on the preparation of Detergent Powder and marketing of the product.

After those sessions, discussions were held with all the experts, and the participants were given positive feedback and requested a similar program to enhance their skills.
